REBELLION ERA

(-2 TO 5 YEARS AFTER THE BATTLE OF YEARLIN)

Equestria has been ruled by the Empress, Dark Side, since the fall of the Alicorn Princesses at the end of the Pone Wars.

Under the Empress, earth ponies are given preferential treatment and all other tribes and creatures are second-class citizens at best. A rebellion against the Empress has been formed, seeking to restore Equestria to its former glory.

It has been nearly five years since the Battle of Yearlin. The Empire has struck back against the Rebel Alliance, driving them towards a final desperate stand. The fate of the galaxy will soon be decided once and for all.

Recalled by the Empress to oversee a secret project in the Outer Rim, Dark Feather leaves Admiral Pie Tin in charge of the fleet.

But when an unexpected illness temporarily fells not only the admiral but the entire command crew, one pony must stand up and defend the Empire against all comers - the pony no-one ever expected would one day become...

THE ADMIRAL

Dark Feather has been recalled by the Empress to oversee a secret project in the Outer Rim. Admiral Pie Tin keeps the fleet ready in her absence.

In her regular bunk in the infirmary, a young pony dreams of the day she joined up to fight for the Empire in this long civil war.

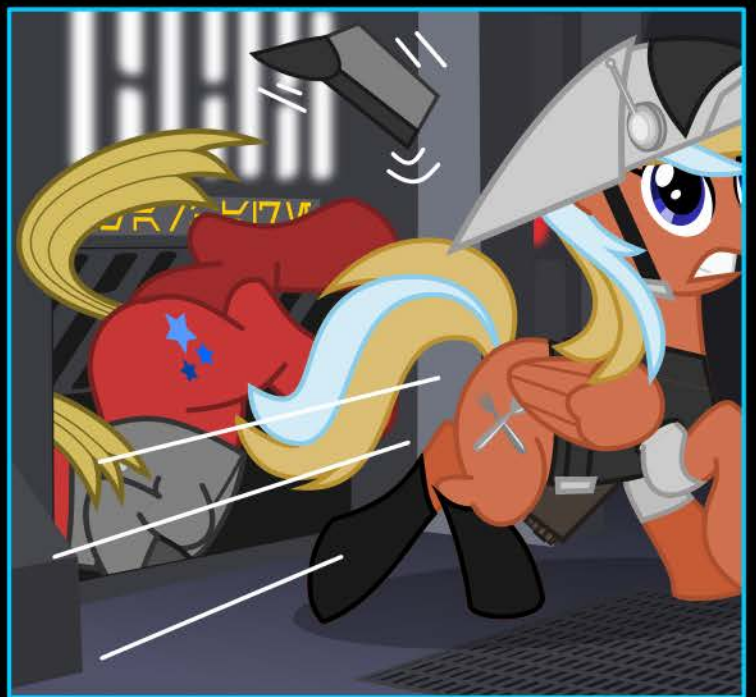

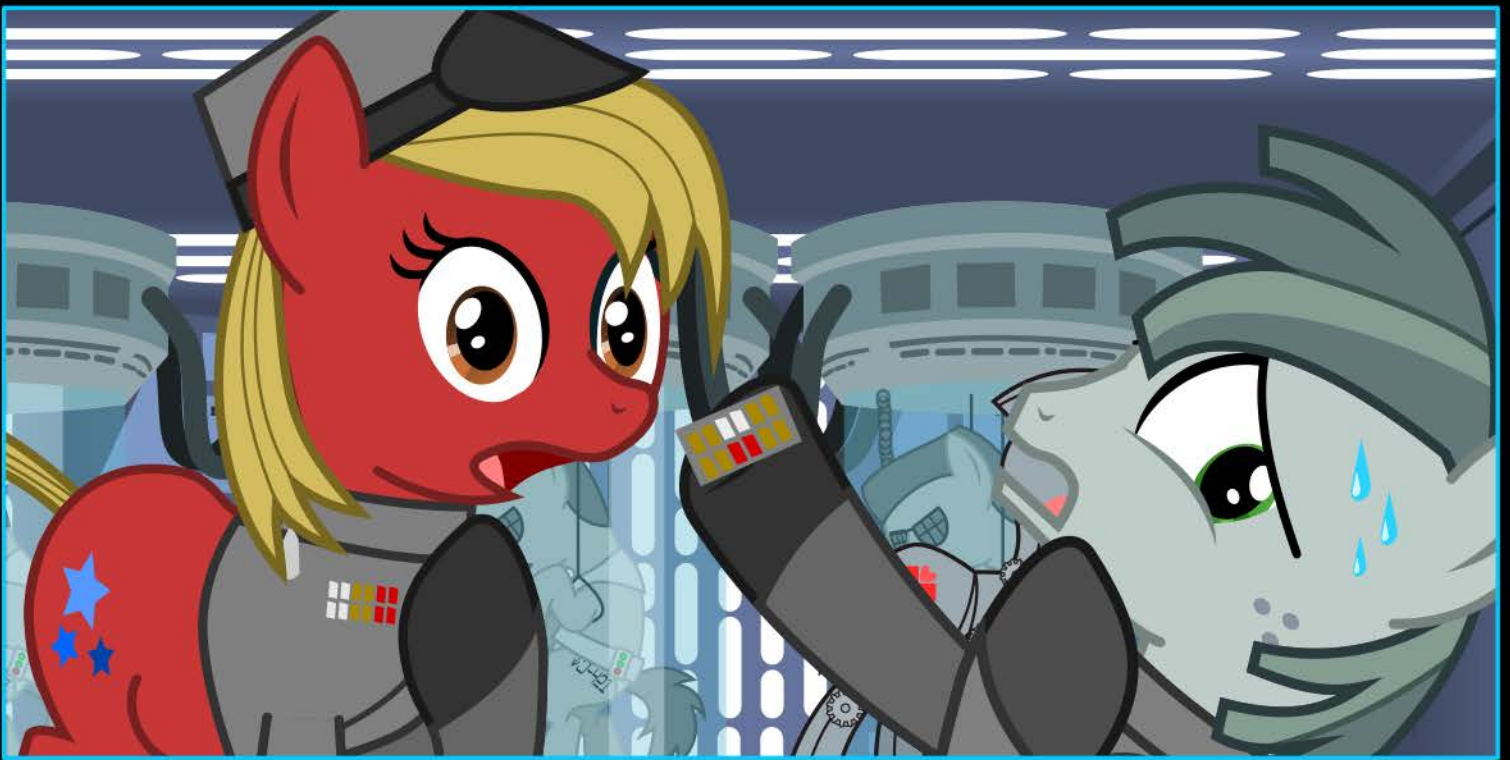

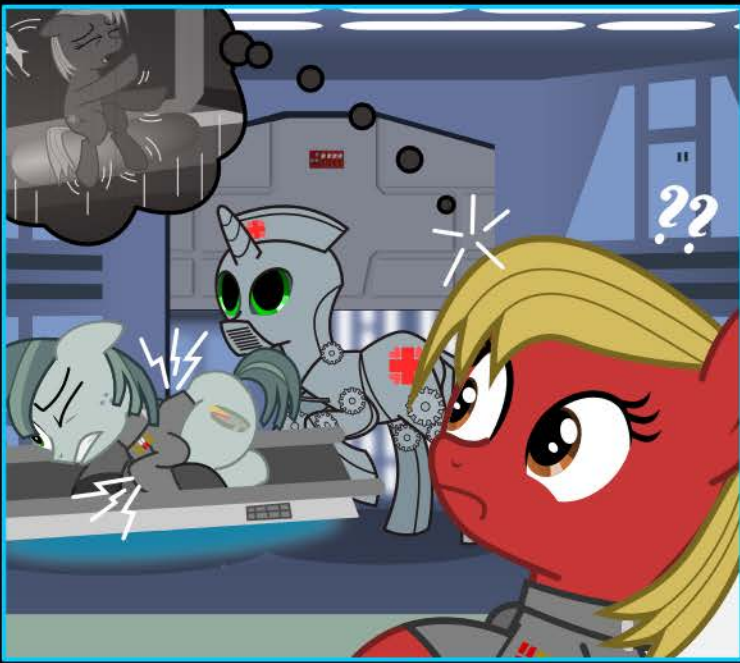

Little does she realize that a sudden accident will soon offer her the greatest opportunity of her young lifetime – if she can survive the upcoming ordeal...

In the years since the Battle of Yearlin, the Rebel Alliance has been driven nearly to the brink. To the Imperial survivors of that pivotal battle, it seems like another lifetime.

With Dark Feather attending to the Empress' wishes, Admiral Pie Tin leads the IMPERIAL STARFLEET in her absence. But when nearly the entire command staff is laid low by a sudden illness, command of the fleet is turned over to the least likely pony imaginable...
